

FROM THE GREEN
NOTEBOOK

THE PODCAST

“Any sort of great creative feat, there’s always years and years of work and reading and study and trying things that failed and learning from that. I don’t think you can find an example of great leadership or creative work or a great company where there’s not that behind it.”

SPONSORED BY

BILLY OPPENHEIMER

Writer and the Research Assistant to Bestselling Author Ryan Holiday

Billy Oppenheimer joins Joe for a discussion about books and the positive influence they can have in our lives. Billy and Joe share the lessons they have learned from reading about Disney Pixar, Bob Dylan, General Patton, Dr. Seuss, The Lumineers, George Lucas, and many others. They also talk about the importance of writing and reflection for personal growth.

Click here to listen to the episode

Meet Billy (@bpoppenheimer)

Billy Oppenheimer is the writing/research assistant to Ryan Holiday. He's also the author of the weekly newsletter, The Six at Six on Sunday.

Share this:

- Email
- Tweet
-
- Print
- Reddit
- WhatsApp